

Estes Thorne & Carr Welcomes Commercial Litigator Jennifer Henry as Partner

DALLAS – Dallas litigation boutique Estes Thorne & Carr PLLC is pleased to announce the addition of commercial litigator Jennifer Henry as partner.

“We are thrilled that Jennifer is joining us. Her focus on client service and approach to creative problem-solving are qualities that fit perfectly with our firm,” said managing partner Jessica Thorne. “Jennifer has handled a variety of complex business disputes including IT outsourcing contracts, mortgage-backed security suits and product liability class actions. She will be a tremendous resource to our clients.”

Ms. Henry joins the firm from the trial law boutique McKool Smith. There, she focused on commercial and business litigation, patent and trademark infringement, financial services litigation and electronic discovery and data preservation.

She earned her law degree, cum laude, from Duke University School of Law. She earned her undergraduate degree, summa cum laude, from Southern Methodist University and remains active, playing trombone in the SMU Alumni Band during basketball season.

“I am honored to join such a prestigious firm where the devotion to excellence is off the charts,” said Ms. Henry. “I’m looking forward to working with great role models at Estes Thorne & Carr and successfully representing our clients.”

For more than 15 years, Ms. Henry has participated in Attorneys Serving the Community, an organization of local women lawyers that has raised millions of dollars for North Texas charities supporting area women, children and families.

Celebrating the firm’s 10th year, Estes Thorne & Carr’s collaborative team of highly experienced attorneys represents clients in commercial litigation, labor and employment, products liability, ERISA litigation, family law, real estate, and healthcare litigation. A Women’s Business Enterprise National Council-certified business, Estes Thorne & Carr is one of the largest women-owned law firms in the Southwest. Estes Thorne & Carr PLLC is located at 3811 Turtle Creek Blvd., Suite 2000, Dallas, Texas, 75219.
